

There's ink in my veins!

Kip Deeds. Cabin Fever, etching, 2004.

I love etching. I love paper. I love presses. I love history. -David Fertig

Intaglio à Go-Go: Etching Moves Forward

Friday, March 20, 2009 | 6 p.m.

Parkway Central Library | 1901 Vine Street | Montgomery Auditorium

A panel of local printmakers working in etching and other intaglio processes will discuss why they continue to work with these ancient techniques and how it continues to resonate with the very contemporary concerns of their work.

Panel: Amze Emmons | Don Forsythe | Shelley Thorstensen
Moderator: John Caperton, Curator, The Print Center

Free and open to the public

Free
LIBRARY OF PHILADELPHIA

freelibrary.org | friendsofpix.org

This program is part of the 10th Annual Robert F. Looney Memorial Event, sponsored by the Associates of the Print and Picture Collection, Friends of the Central Library.