You are cordially invited to
The 10th Robert F. Looney Memorial Event

Friday March 20, 2009

Intaglio à Go-Go: Etching Moves Forward | 6 p.m.

Join us in the Montgomery auditorium for a conversation with local printmakers working in etching and other intaglio processes. Artists, Amze Emmons, Don Forsythe, Shelley Thorstensen, moderated by John Caperton, Curator of The Print Center, will discuss why they continue to work with these ancient techniques and how it continues to resonate with the very contemporary concerns of their work.

Free and open to the public

Parkway Central Library | 1901 Vine Street

Fundraising Reception and Silent Auction
Parkway Central Lobby | 7:00 - 8:30 p.m.

Enjoy luscious food and drink, meet the artists participating in the panel and exhibition, and bid on original artwork donated by those artists and others. The reception/silent auction is a ticketed fundraising event sponsored by the Associates of the Print & Picture Collection, Friends of the Central Library. All proceeds benefit the Print & Picture Collection.

Exhibition | Intaglio à Go-Go: Etching Moves Forward
March 16 - May 29, 2009

Intaglio is a family of printmaking processes (etching, engraving, dry point, aquatint, mezzotint) used by artists since the 15th century. The techniques are still taught in art schools and faithfully used by artists for the richness and unique quality of the image. This exhibition features a number of Philadelphia area printmakers working in intaglio, as well as some twentieth century Philadelphia printmakers from the collection of the Print and Picture Collection

For additional information contact the Print and Picture Collection, 9-5, Monday through Friday, at 215-686-5405 or see the website: www.friendsofpix.org.

There's ink in my veins! I love etching. I love paper. I love presses. I love history. -David Fertig
